Middlesex Sheriff's Office now accepting applications For 2015 Youth Public Safety Academy

BILLERICA – Middlesex Sheriff Peter J. Koutoujian recently announced applications are now available for youngsters interested in participating in the Sheriff's 2015 Youth Public Safety Academy (YPSA).

"I am excited to once again be able to offer this program for youngsters from communities across the county," said Sheriff Koutoujian. "Thanks to our tremendous staff and our public safety partners, YPSA provides a fun-filled and educational environment for children to learn about public safety and get to know not only our officers, but also the police officers and firefighters from their own communities."

Once again this year, the academy will be open to children ages 9-11, with six one-week camps beginning on July 6. To learn more about the YPSA program and fill out an online application, please visit www.middlesexsheriff.org/YPSA.html.
